Seville, 12th December 2021

I met Adrián Flores López several years ago, when he was an undergraduate student in the University of Seville. I taught 'History of Classical World' and 'Ancient History of Spain' to him and then I was his supervisor in order to get the Bachelor Degree. He wrote an interesting research about the History of the Nabatean Kingdom from the beginning up to the Roma conquest. So, I have followed the formation and progresses of Adrián Flores and I can say that he is a very serious person and a good student, with a open mind, and he likes working and learning.

I completely satisfied with the task developed by the Graduate student and I think that he is a good candidate to apply for the post of assistant of Spanish in any country. He is enthousiastic and works hard. I do not hesitate in recommend him.
